What have we been up to?

We hope you all had a special weekend celebrating Mothering Sunday – appreciating our loved ones is not just Mum's but also Foster Mums, Aunties, Nan's or Godmothers and any other special women in our lives! We hope you loved receiving the gorgeous card's your children created at nursery.

We have been learning about symmetry this week, we discussed what symmetry we could see in the world around us. a few children recognised that butterflies are symmetrical; which initiated an activity to create our own butterflies. We have also enjoyed symmetrical flash cards matching the sides that are the same; we used our counting skills and shape recognition.

We enjoyed matching our quantities and number flash cards and the children used their language and communications skills, saying things like "I have three ice lollies, where is the number 3?"

We had fantastic day learning about and celebrating St Patrick's day on Wednesday; we loved baking green cupcakes and making everything green including water, flour and play dough! We also loved dancing to Irish music and Irish dancing.

We have been continued to look at our phonics sounds – why not try this at home; google "jolly phonics"

We have enjoyed lots of arts and crafts activities such as shape printing, giant bubbles, feathers with foam and yoghurt pot decorating.

We have been busy baking biscuits – we love all the learning experiences while baking biscuits – measuring, pouring, turn taking and so many more.

We have celebrated two special children turning 4 this week, happy birthday to our big boy and girl!
